

Special section on bicentennial

America's 200th anniversary birthday bash will climax on Sunday, our bicentennial Fourth of July.

The Democrat-Capital will devote a special section to stories of bicentennial interest, which will be included in Sunday's paper. It will contain a variety of features on both people and subjects pertinent to the area's historical background.

$59,745 awarded to center

Watch for it this Sunday.

A federal grant of $59,745 has been awarded to the Virginia Flower Child. Development and Rehabilitation Center for duplicating its unique early childhood assistance outreach program in 18 additional rural Missouri counties, it was announced Friday by Rep. William Ran-

Some 22,000 children are expected to participate in this program which is being funded by the Bureau of Education for the Handicapped under the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW). The Pettis County pilot project has been conducted by the center since 1973 under the direction of Dr. R. Kenneth Wilcox. It also was initially federally-funded but now is financed through the center's regular channels.

Services that have been provided by the project include a screening program for pre-school and school aged children to identify handicaps, remedial classes and therapy at the center, appropriate referrals of identified children for services not available locally and counseling programs for parents.

Many county volunteers, trained by center personnel, have participated in screening clinics and have helped in other ways.

The center will not be directly involved in conducting the program, Roger Garlich, director of the center explained, but instead will train a group of University of Missouri Exension Service persons will be instructed in technical procedures which must be followed in screening and will also be informed of other ways in which laymen can help in These Extension specialists will then return to their districts throughout the state and instruct volunteers in their respective counties. These community volunteers, as they did in Pettis County, will provide the foundation for the success of the program, Garlich indicated.

Volunteer workers will also help communities implement innovative cooperative programs with public school districts designed to better educate and train handicapped students.

The 18 counties to be served by this program have not yet been determined, Garlich siad. While many of them will

New Viking site safe, more likely to harbor life

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) - America's plan for landing on Mars is back on the track, with the squat, three-legged Viking lander now scheduled to plop down on the planet's ruddy surface July 17 at a site scientists believe is smooth and safe.

Viking's new target, about 150 miles northwest of the area found too rugged for a July 4 landing, may also be somewhat more likely to harbor life, if the revised plan that the Northwest site is a low basin once washed by flowing water. And because it is nearly a mile lower than the original site, the planet's thin atmosphere may exert enough pressure there to allow a small amount of liquid water to exist.

"Snow, ice and maybe even liquid water are possible on the site that we've from the original landing site, called picked - as well as sand dunes," said

Scientists said Thursday in announcing Dr. James Fletcher, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

> Fletcher met with project officials at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory to make the final decision on a landing site.

> Scientists say recent photographs indicate that the new site is a plain built up by material deposited by rivers - long since dry — that flowed in that direction Chryse or A1.

This material could contain living organisms, or traces of past life if it no longer exists on Mars. One biologist said the area may be covered by windblown material like fine sand, and thus would provide samples of soil from other areas for the lander to study.

The site contains few of the water-etched channels, cliffs and knobs that caused mission planners to fear that the lander would be impaled on a rocky protuberance. It is basically smooth, apparently free of large craters and, overall, shows less sign of cratering than A1, said Dr. Harold Masursky, head of the landing site team.

The landing unit will separate from the Viking orbiter at midnight, July 16. Since it is not controllable from earth at that point - the signals take too long to go back and forth - the lander will be automatically guided to the surface by a computer.

Brennan, Marshall dissent

Court upholds death penalty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall regardless of the procedure followed in Court upheld the death penalty today but struck down laws in two states that make death mandatory for certain crimes. The court approved death penalty laws in Florida, Georgia and Texas but invalidated laws in Louisiana and North

The laws the court upheld leave the death penalty decision in the hands of judges or jurors but provide guidelines

According to an Associated Press survey, 572 meñ and 10 women on death rows in 30 states were awaiting the court's decision on whether to uphold death as a punishment.

The court outlined its views in separate opinions by Justices Potter Stewart and Byron R. White as well a a brief statement by Justice Harry A. Blackmun, who said simply that he concurred.

Widespread re-enactment of the death penalty after the Supreme Court invalidated it in many states has been a 'marked indication of society's endorsement of the death penalty for murder," the justices said.

'We hold that the death penalty is not a form of punishment that may never be imposed, regardless of the circumstances of the offense, regardless of The vote was 7-2, with Justices William the character of the offender, and reaching the decision.

In North Carolina, where 116 persons were on death row, the law required execution in the gas chamber for murder which is "willful, deliberate and premeditated" or committed during a felony or an attempted felony.

North Carolina had more prisoners on death row than any other state.

Louisiana law required the death penalty for murder during an aggravated kidnapping, rape, robbery or burglary; murder of a fireman or peace officer in line of duty; murder by an already-convicted killer or by a life-term prisoner; multiple murder or murder for

Other states with mandatory death penalty laws are Alabama, Washington, Indiana, Virginia, Maryland, Missouri, South Carolina, Delaware, Idaho, Kentucky, Mississippi, Nevada, New Hampshire. New Mexico, New York, Oklahoma, Rhode Island and Wyoming.

The effect of the decision on those states was not immediately clear because of variations in the ways their laws were written. But it appeared likely that few of them could survive a challenge because they make the death penalty mandatory.

Justice Stewart, who wrote the court's main opinion, said mandatory death laws had "simply papered over the problem of unguided an unchecked jury discretion."

The vote striking down the laws in Louisiana and North Carolina was 5-4 with Justices Brennan, Marshall, Lewis F. Powell Jr., and John Paul Stevens, joining Stewart in the majority. Stewart said North Carolina had not provided adequate standards for juries to use in deciding whether to find a defendant guilty of one of its specified categories of capital murder.

The North Carolina law, he said, "treats all persons convicted of a designated offense not as uniquely individual human beings, but as members of a faceless, undifferentiated mass to be subjected to the blind infliction of the penalty of death."

Death row breakdown

WASHINGTON (AP) - More than half the 582 death row prisoners awaiting today's Supreme Court decision on capital punishment were young black murderers, a survey by The Associated Press shows.

Statistics, compiled from officials in 30 states where the men were imprisoned, show 300 blacks, 260 whites, 13 Mexican-Americans, eight Indians and one Puerto Rican. All but 10 of them are men.

Of the total, 539 were awaiting execution for murder, sometimes combined with other crimes. Of those not convicted of murder, 42 were rapists. One man in Georgia was sentenced to death for kidnaping and robbery.

Of those whose ages were known, 320 were in their 20's and 110 in their 30's. The youngest were four 17-year-old blacks convicted of murder in Delaware, Mississippi, Nebraska and North Carolina. The oldest was a 67-year-old white man, Archie Allen, awaiting execution for murder in South Carolina.

Although nationwide statistics on education were not available, a study by the North Carolina Department of Corrections showed that 61 per cent of 100 prisoners on that state's death row had not gone beyond the 10th grade.

to stadium

for service

The Sedalia bicentennial memorial service, originally scheduled to be held at Liberty Park Stadium, will now be conducted at 8:30 p.m. Saturday at Jennie Jaynes Stadium, it was announced Local American Legion Post 16 commander Howard Hillman, who is coordinating the event, said the change was made this week for several reasons.

"We definitely know there is a flag pole at Jennie Jaynes, whereas there is no pole at the baseball stadium," Hillman explained. "We were told we could probably get one installed by the park department in time, but the flag-raising is a very important part of our upcoming service and we just wanted to make absolutely sure a pole would be available."

Also, Hillman noted, electrical hookups for speakers and special lights can be installed more conveniently at Jennie Jaynes Stadium. Finally, he said, two flatbed trailer "platforms," lent by the Parkhurst Manufacturing Co. for a recent week-long evangelistic crusade at Jennie Jaynes, will be available for performers at the memorial service.

The service is scheduled to include a spirited musical "salute to America," in addition to traditional memorial service ceremonies.

Congo next stop for Cubans?

intelligence sources say they have received reports that Cuban leaders may be preparing to send several thousand troops from Angola to the Congo Republic.

Minister Fidel Castro, traveled to Brazzaville, the Congo Republic's capital last month, to discuss redeployment of some of Cuba's 15,000 troops from nearby Angola, sources said.

He agreed to the transfer of about 3,000 Cuban soliders to train Congolese troops, telligence. The reports gave no indication if there are other reasons the Congo government wants Cuban troops in the country

The Congo Republic served for a time as a staging point for Cuban and Soviet Raul Castro, brother of Cuban Prime military aid to pro-Marxist forces in Angola which later defeated U.S. backed

With troops in the Congo, Cuba conceivably could bring political pressure against Zaire, which is friendly to the United States and provided support to anti-Marxist forces in the Angolan civil according to reports reaching U.S. in- war. A narrow strip of Zaire territory leading to the Atlantic is sandwiched between Angola and the Congo Republic.

Raul Castro also visited Luanda, the Angolan capitol, in early June to explain Fidel Castro's decision to reduce the Cuban military presence in Angola, U.S. intelligence sources said

This visit reportedly came within about 10 days after disclosure that Fidel Castro had written Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme saying that Cuba would withdraw about 200 soldiers a week from Angola. The Cuban prime minister was quoted as saying his troop strength in October would be cut in half by the end of this year.

It was assumed then that the Cuban troops would go home.

Since then, there have been a number of news dispatches from Havana saying that Cuban troops have been seen returning from Africa. However, U.S. officials say the U.S. still does not have conclusive evidence that any significant number of Cuban soldiers have been withdrawn from Angola

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has repeatedly warned Cuba against embarking on military ventures elsewhere

Sedalian escapes jail, still at large

Dusty Lee Smith, 20, 421 East Third. overpowered a jailer and fled on foot after the jailer opened the main cell block door to return another prisoner who had gotten a haircut, Henry County sheriff's department authorities said. A woman dispatcher and the jailer,

Thursday afternoon, were the only persons on duty at the jail during the escape, authorities said.

Five prisoners, including Smith, were reportedly watching television in the main cell block area when the jailer opened the door

Smith had conferred with his attorneys earlier that afternoon at the jail, authorities said.

Smith is charged with first-degree robbery by means of a dangerous weapon in Kreisel, the store's head clerk, was wounded in the neck and robbed of more than $14,000 in checks and cash he was planning to deposit in a bank shortly before midnight March 5.

Smith was taken into custody and positively identified by the victim March , but was released later the same day following a lie detector test and extensive questioning at Highway Patrol head-

Positive results from a barium-

Smith's trial is set for July 16. If convicted he could face a sentence of five years to life in prison.

Carter raises old issue in disobedience remarks

Jimmy Carter, discussing a Sunday school lesson, said people have a duty to disobey government when convinced it is acting contrary to divine law, he touched on a sensitive

It's an old, basic premise of Judeo-Christianity and also the seed that sparked an event the nation celebrates this weekend - the American Revolution.

As the Declaration of Independence puts it, human beings are "endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights" that no monarch nor government can validly take away nor infringe.

When they do, the people are duty-bound to rise up in revolt, the founding document says.

In proclaiming that such a moment had come 200 years ago this Sunday, the framers of that Declaration appealed to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions" and asserted 'firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence.'

They rested their case on a higher court than any human

That formative platform of the nation, asserting an overarching sovereignty, stemmed from the ancient Biblical heritage the heroes of which recurrently took stands against governments in the name of a higher justice.

-Moses defied the Pharoah, "Let my people go."

-David, for a time a fugitive, hid in the mountains from the king's soldiers.

-The prophets Isaiah and Jeremiah were imprisoned as conspirators.

-Daniel was sentenced to death.

-Jesus was tried, condemned and executed by the Roman occupation government as a fomenter of treason.

His apostles, repeatedly arrested, refused orders to cease their ministry. "We must obey God rather than men," they said as recorded in Acts

Rev. Wagner new pastor in Sweet Springs

SWEET SPRINGS - The Rev. Alton L. Wagner has replaced the Rev. Ralph Sipes as pastor of Wesley United Methodist Church here, and the Elmwood United Methodist Church, near here.

Born in Bradford, Penn., he entered the ministry in 1969 in the South Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church. He was ordained June 7, 1973, and is a graduate of Erskine College, Due West,

He now plans to attend St. Paul School of Theology in Kansas City. He came here from Starr Charge, Starr, S.C.

Longwood students to reunite

Alumni, teachers, families and friends are invited to the annual Longwood High School reunion to be held July 25.

The day will begin with an 11 a.m. worship service at Longwood Presbyterian Church followed by a basket dinner in the fellowship house. A short business meeting will be transacted at 2 p.m. Special emphasis will be given to members of classes of 1921, 1926, 1931, 1936 and 1941.

The first road pavement was laid in Pemaguid, Maine,

It's an incendiary principle. It fired the nation's origins and laid the foundations of freedom, but there also are supplementary, qualifying restraints protesting those institutions which are just as old, and just as Biblical. "Let every person be subject to the governing authorities," wrote the apostle Paul in Romans 13. "For there is no authority except from God, and those that exist have been instituted by God ... Pay all of them their dues, taxes to whom taxes are due ... respect to whom respect is due ..

The subtle, differenting line involves where the "due" category ends.

"Render therefore to Caeser the things that are Caeser's, and to God the things that are God's," Jesus put it in Matthew 22:21

As Biblical men saw it, as the American founders interpreted that imperative and as the Nuernberg trials concluded, people are to heed governing authority except when it transgresses people's conscientious sense of right, at which point they should

That's what Democratic presidential contender Carter was talking about when reporters in Plains, Ga., pressed him about his views on obedience to government the subject of a Baptist class he had attended in his home church.

Christians are to "obey the civil authorities," he said, except when convinced the civil law flouts God's will, "then the duty of a Christian is to obey the will of God.'

'The Bible teaches that in that case the citizen has to suffer the consequences of the law." he said. But he added: "We have a responsibility to try to shape the government so that it does exemplify the teachings of God.

Advisor

Ricky Kreisel, of near Green Ridge, recently was selected an advisor to the Presbytery Youth Council for 1976-77, and is one of five young persons from the northeast Missouri area to serve in that capacity. He will advise the Missouri Union Presbytery on matters related to youth and will help plan a program of youth ministry events.

number will be small. "When it was laid on the line and they understood that it had to be done, most of them agreed to do it," said Paul Green, head of the state Divi-

> Two months ago, the division announced that as many as 16,000 of the state's 60,000 public school teachers could become ineligible to teach this fall because they had yet to complete the two-hour course on the psychology and education of the exceptional child. That course requirement was mandated by the state legislature in 1973 to be effective July 1, 1976.

Greene said that many of the 16,000 teachers initially without the course had taken it in the past month and "many, many more will be in short courses offered on many of our campuses in August.'

Some public teachers

may become ineligible

"There will be very few teachers that will be penalized as a result of not being able to get the course," said Green's assistant Harvey Wilson.

But neither Greene nor Wilson would estimate how many teachers will actually be out of the classroom this

"It's difficult to say," said Wilson. "It is possible that they will request renewal (of their teaching certificate) and be eligible for it. It could be 100, it could be 500 (to be disqualified), but I wouldn't want to be quoted on a number. We just don't know how many of them are still without it.'

The actual number will probably be known by the end of August, officials said, when the last summer sessions are over and the number of teachers completing the courses is known.

Hijack talks resume today; 110 still held

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) -Negotiations resumed today for the release of the 110 passengers and crewmen of a hijacked Air France plane still held by pro-Palestinian extremists at Uganda's Entebbe airport.

Most or all of the 98 passengers still held were Israelis or Jews of other nationalities. The hijackers released 148 hostages from other countries Wednesday and Thursday.

Diplomats said French Ambassador Pierre Renard, Somali Ambassador Hashi Abdullah and Ugandan President Idi Amin were meeting with one or another of the hijackers on the runway near an unused terminal where the captives have been held since Monday.

Abdullah spoke for the guerrillas, who claimed to be members of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine. Renard acted for France, Israel and three other governments.

The hijackers are demanding the release of 40 prisoners in Israel and 13 others they say are held in West Germany, Switzerland and Kenya. They threaten to kill the hostages if the prisoners are not delivered to them by 7 a.m. EDT Sunday.

Israel, breaking a seven-year policy of refusing to give in to the demands of terrorists, agreed to negotiate an exchange.

"Israel is not declaring its terms, nor is it accepting all the demands of the hijackers," Transport Minister Gad Yaacobi said in Tel Aviv. This was an indication his government would try to reduce the number of prisoners it would Diplomats in Kampala said they believed Hani el Hassan, a top political adviser to Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasir Arafat, was on his way to Kampala to join in the negotations.

In Nairobi, capital of neighboring Kenya, an Air France spokesman said a jetliner was standing by in case the hijackers released more of the hostages.

We think there could be swift developments, but so far there is absolutely nothing to indicate any break in the situation," the spokes man said.

Hostages freed Thursday by the hijackers said when the plane arrived in Uganda, three heavily armed Arabs were waiting to reinforce the four who had taken over the plane Sunday.

'When we landed in Entebbe, a group of Arabs waited for us, and they brought a whole arsenal of guns aboard, including submachine guns, a Beretta pistol and rifles," said Gerard Tribandaut, a French communications technician.

Rebels launch coup against Sudan leader

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) - Rebel soldiers in Sudan launched a coup against President Jaafar el-Numairi today but failed to gain the upper hand by midafternon, the Iraq news agency said.

The agency said pro-and antiNumairi armed civilians clashed in the streets of Khartoum after fighting broke out at the

The agency said the situation was confused and did not identify the rebels. There was no report on casualties.

The coup attempt began shortly after Numairi, a general who came to power in a bloodless coup in 1969, landed in Khartoum from Paris after a trip to the United States and Europe.

Diplomatic sources here said shooting was heard 15 minutes after Numairi landed. They said the president got into a car and drove away from the airport.

Firing later spread to various parts of the capital and to Omdurman, a twin city across the Nile River where the Sudanese radio station is located. Four hours after the first skirmish, sources reported fighting involving mortars and rockets in Khartoum. Armed men in civilian clothes were seen roaming the streets. The Iraqi news agency quoted its correspondent in Khartoum saying gunfire in the capital continued hours after the coup attempt began.

Khartoum airport was closed, the agency reported, and all internal communications in the capital and to the outside world were down.

Omdurman radio did not come on the air as scheduled this morning, another indication the rebels had failed to effect a swift takeover. Broadcasting stations are a customary prime target in coups so rebels can monopolize the airwaves and broadcast communiques.

The agency said youths in loudspeaker trucks roamed the streets of Khartoum, claiming the coup had been a success. Other civilians were seen disarming policemen.

Numairi, 46, restored a military regime to Africa's largest country in 1969 after five years of civilian rule.

There was no immediate official reaction from Arab governments as word of the latest coup attempt spread. President Anwar Sadat of Egypt was reported following news of events in Khartoum

Numairi, like Sadat, recently has steered his country on a pro-Western

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices White Blackmun and William H. Rehnquist dissented.

In an opinion by White, the dissenters rejected arguments that the discretion, let to prosecutors, juries, judges and others by the mandatory laws, made them just as offensive as the laws which the court struck down in 1972.

Today's decision was the first Supreme Court on the death penalty since 1972. when the court ruled 5 to 4 that laws then on the books gave too much discretion to judges and juries. That decision invalidated death penalty laws of 36 states, the District of Columbia and the federal government.

In the aftermath of the 1972 decision, 35 states re-enacted the death penalty. But in one of them - Illinois - the law was struck down by the state supreme court.

New laws in 20 states made the death penalty mandatory for a limited number of crimes. Fourteen other states enacted laws employing various formulas calling for judges and juries to consider aggravating and mitigating circumstances.

Most of the new laws impose capital punishment for fewer offenses than before. In three states - California, Colorado and Washington - the new measures were enacted by popular vote.

Congress passed a law providing the death penalty for aggravated cases of air piracy resulting in death. The death penalty has not been imposed under this

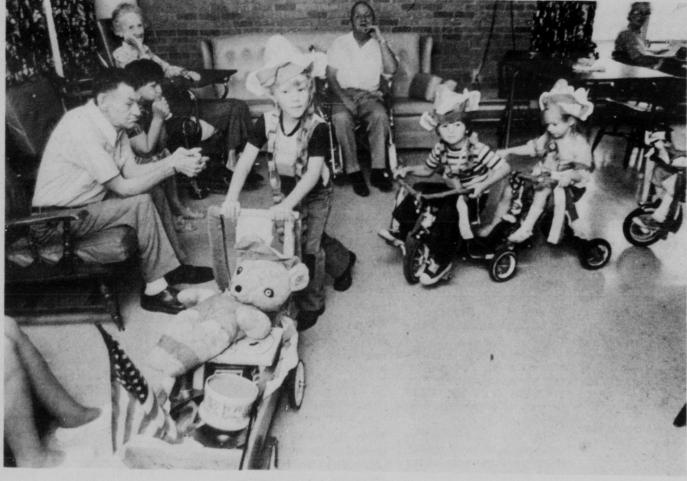

Since 1930, when reliable count was first kept, 3,859 persons have been executed

The cases before the Supreme Court involved six men charged with murders in Florida, Louisiana, Texas, Georgia and North Carolina between 1973 and 1974. The six were among 76 death row inmates who asked the Supreme Court to review their cases.

In his opinion, Stewart said the imposition of the death penalty for murder "has a long history of acceptance both in the United States and in England" and was obviously accepted by the framers of the Constitution.

He said that the death penalty is not under all circumstances a violation of the constitutional ban aginst cruel and unusual punishment, and that the Georgia law satisfied the requirements which the high court outlined in its 1972

The Georgia law was signed in 1973 by then Gov. Jimmy Carter, now the almost-certain Democratic nominee for president.

Christians attack refugees

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) -Grenade-throwing Christians stormed a through the outer defenses of the heavily burning Palestinian refugee camp in southeast Beirut today and fought defending guerrillas hand to hand in the fiercest battle of the Lebanese civil war.

Associated Press reporter Nick Ludington reported from the edge of the camp that Christian fighters were firing on a still-smoking factory building a few hundred yards inside the camp where making a house-tohouse advance. defenders and refugees huddled.

He said rightist forces had broken the assault, said he believed 10,000 perfortified camp.

The strength of the attacking force was variously reported as between 2,000 and 6,000 men

Unemployment rate jumps to 7.5 per cent

WASHINGTON (AP) -Unemployment jumped to 7.5 per cent of the work force in June, up two-tenths of a per cent and the biggest monthly climb since the depths of last year's recession, the government said today.

The increase could create election-year difficulties for President Ford. He has said the steady drop in the nation's jobless rate until now has shown that his economic policies are working.

The rise also could bring new pressure for additional government action to

However, government economists have said that a rise in the jobless rate would not be a cause for concern. "I wouldn't interpret a rise as a sign of any sudden change in the economy," said Maynard Comiez, a top Commerce Department economist

The Labor Department said the number of unemployed in June increased by 280,000 to a total of 7.1 million, while the number of employed declined by 200,000, a total of 87.5 million.

There were increases in unemploy ment in nearly all categories in the labor force, the department said. Its statistics showed:

Society plans pet neutering program

Plans for a spaying and neutering program were initiated at the Mid-Missouri Humane Society meeting Thursday night at the courthouse assembly room.

Four persons will be chosen at a drawing Aug. 5 to have their dog or cat spayed or neutered at the veterinary clinic of their choice. The Humane Society will pay half the fee.

Persons interested in participating should send their name, address and their pet's breed, sex and age to the Mid-Missouri Humane Society, P.O. Box 1171,

In other business, the society announced plans to purchase about 12 selffeeders for the city animal shelter. The society was presented a certificate sons including 3,600 guerrillas were still inside. But other estimates put the guerrilla strength at 1,200. The Phalangist radio said this afternoon that the Palestine Liberation Organization had rejected the Christian leaders call for evacuation of the camp. About 1,500 Saudi Arabian and Sudanese soldiers arrived overland from Damascus Thursday and bivouacked at the Beirut airport. They joined 800 Syrians and Libyans who have been marking time since their arrival last

Farouk Kaddoumi, chief of the Palestine Liberation Organization's political department, said the truce force would not be deployed in battle zones to stop the fighting. The Saudi and Sudanese governments said their troops would begin police duties only after a cease-fire took effect. In addition, the Labor Department said Kaddoumi said the Palestinians have the average duration of unemployment offered several cease-fires but the Chrisincreased by two weeks in June to 16.9 tians rejected them. Leftist gunners fired rockets from southern Beirut at the Christian artillery shelling the camp. In retaliation, Christian 155mm and 122mm artillery blasted Moslem residential areas, setting a number of fires.

Kaddoumi said the camp's defenders drove back the Christian assault Thursday, but it was renewed and continued into the night.

"We've done all this in Sedalia and Pettis County and we're just excited that the people in Washington thought what we are doing is worth expanding on," Garlich said. "We just want to excite the residents of rural counties throughout Missouri, because if we do, we fully believe they will respond just as tremendously as school officials and citizens in Pettis County have. We're just very happy, not only for the center, but for all the children that will be helped.'

Garlich noted the competition to receive a grant from the Bureau of Education for the Handicapped is quite strong, with usually only one application out of every 15 or 20 approved for funding. The local application was approved, he feels, because of the large number of children that will be involved (22,000) and the fact that a state agency such as the Extension Service will be involved in implementing the project.

"The national implications reflect that extension services exist as a feature of all land grant universities in all the 50 states," he said. "This potential for nationwide implementation of our program is very strong. We feel confident we will be able to demonstrate in the coming vear that such a program is demonstrably beneficial to children and that University Extension Services are an effective agent for carrying out this

Although it is possible to request second-year funds to finance the project, Garlich said it is hoped the university will agree to include it as a regular service of the Extension Division.

Men plead guilty to drug charges

Two 20-year-old men pleaded guilty in Magistrate Court Friday morning to misdemeanor charges of possessing a controlled substance, less than 35 grams of marijuana, and were fined $50.

Ronald Wayne Reinke, Gravois Mills, was charged in connection with a Jan. 24 incident in which Sedalia police found two packages of what was later determined to be marijuana in his car.

Phillip John Kindle, 916 South Moniteau, was charged in connection with an incident in May, 1974, when he was arrested by police on 20th Street near the MFA exchange.

Kindle was also charged in connection with that incident with possession of 5.9 grams of hashish, a felony. However, Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming dismissed that charge Friday morning due to various problems hampering prosecution of the case.

In addition to the fines, Judge Hazel Palmer gave each a suspended 30-day county jail sentence and placed both on probation for six months.

Fewer tornadoes for most states

KANSAS CITY (AP) - Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska fell well below their normal tornado activity, and Iowa had more than usual, the first half of 1976, the National Severe Storms Forecast Center reports.

The center said Thursday the totals listed are official through April, with estimates for May and June.

Allen Pearson, center director, said the over-all totals could drop when May and June storms are investigated, since some turn out to be straight winds rather than tornadic. The four-state trend runs against national figures. Nationally, there is an apparent new record number of tornadoes-773-reported across the U.S. The previous record was 707 for the first six months of 1973 and the average since

Only six states reported a number of tornadoes below the average figures and 11 states reported near average numbers. Eleven states have not reported any tornadoes so far during the year.

The center said tornado fatalities have been lower this year-37, compared with an average since 1950 of 97. The extreme was the first half of 1974 when 357 people were killed. The fatalities include four in Oklahoma, and two in Iowa recorded 34 tornadoes, compared with its average of 19. Of that total, 31 were reported in June.

Dear Reader - You have understood correctly. It is possible for two Rh positive parents to have an Rh negative baby. Each parent has two genes for the Rh factor. The D gene is dominant and the d gene weak. If both parents are Dd and transmit only one of their genes to the baby some of the offspring are going to have dd genes which is Rh negative. Of course, if both parents have DD Rh genes all the children will have D genes and be Rh positive.

Your letter bothers me because the problem with Rh negative blood does not occur when the baby is Rh negative. The problem occurs when an Rh negative mother has an Rh positive baby. The Rh negative mother literally becomes allergic to Rh positive blood. Her antibodies or immunity to Rh positive blood attack the blood in the Rh positive baby, destroying blood and causing a jaundiced like reaction.

This does not occur if the baby is Rh negative. The mother's Rh positive blood (if she is Rh positive) will not contain antibodies and will not affect the baby. It's important that all Rh negative mothers be treated whenever they have had any pregnancy with an Rh positive baby. This applies to-many pregnancies terminating in abortions. ### Mercenaries knew what risks were

WASHINGTON - As might be expected, State Department spokesman have been ushered out to shed a few

crocodile tears about the American mercenaries who either got death sentence or long prison terms in Angola Tuesday

A mixture of feelings of nationalism, racism and patriotism may induce many Americans to endorse angrily the State Department assertion that the Americans have been dealt with too harshly especially Daniel Gearhart of Kensington, Md.

Sympathy for Gearhart, 34, will rise naturally for some Americans who learn for the first time that he has a wife and four children back here who are burdened with $30,000 in medical bills.

But before any cries go up for the U.S.

to declare war on Angola, let us look at some facts: Gearhart was not drafted by the U.S. and sent to Angola as a brave warrior out to demolish a declared foe. He ran an advertisement offering himself as a mercenary, which was tantamount to saying: "I'll kill people for money: tell me what you'll pay and where you want me to do the killing.' Gearhart had written to. and apparently solicited "assignments" through, the Wild Geese Club, an infamous group of mercenaries based in South Africa.

Gearhart knew that he had a wife and four children when he did these things and when he landed in Zaire posing as a businessi.an.

Soldiers of fortune know that they risk death in combat — or execution if they are captured. So it takes a certain lack of concern for family for a mercenary to rush off to Africa, his trigger finger itch-

Do we really expect an Angolan judge to show more compassion for Gearhart's family than Gearhart himself showed?

Let us hope Americans remember that a "hit man" who offers to kill at random for money in faraway Africa is no less an animal than a hit man who mows down a specific union leader here at home.

Still, it is almost a certainty that the sentences dealt out to Gearhart and the other Americans are extra stiff because of Angolan resentment of U.S. government actions.

The U.S. supported Portuguese colonialism in Angola long past the point of stupidity. Then it picked the wrong Angolan faction to support as post- independence rulers. Most of the world long ago recognized the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA) as the legitimate government. But the U.S. persists in pouting, refusing recognition. vetoing Angola's bid for UN membership.

The outward rationale is that Angola isn't really independent as long as Cuban troops are there — an absurdity that is tantamount to saying West Germany. Turkey, South Korea, the Philippines, Greece and other countries are not independent because U.S. troops are there.

Reports out of Luanda indicated that the trial of the mercenaries was no kangaroo-court operation. Most legal proprieties apparently were preserved.

Yet it was clear that the United States was on trial as much as the mercenaries. Those Angolan judges clearly believe that the U.S., through the CIA, provided the money to pay the mercenaries.

When the U.S. blocked Angola's entry into the UN (a veto taken partly to spare Mr. Ford an attack by Ronald Reagan), Angolan President Agostinho Neto expressed public outrage.

Those Angolan judges, being human, surely shared some of Neto's anger. It is a wonder, then, that they even bothered to make distinctions among the American defendants, giving one death, another 30 years in prison and a third a President Neto may spare Gearhart from the firing squad. I hope he does, if only to avoid further poisoning the at-

But as we watch the drama unfold, let's remember that our own laws set a prison term of up to three years for any American who recruits, or serves as, a mercenary against any country or jurisdiction of people "with whom the United States is at peace." When we enforce our laws and punish our mercenaries, other countries won't have #### ahead 16-year prison term. By DOUG KNEIBERT Being a charter member of the Procrastinator's Club, I've let the Fourth of July slip up on me without having a polished and inspiring column ready on the subject.

So in its place I will offer a few random thoughts and notes from here and there on the bicentennial theme, and also talk about the fine local observance that has been planned.

I've been mulling over a remark I heard at coffee hour at church not long ago. The bicentennial was the topic of conversation, and a farmer friend of mine remarked that no one seems to have much to say about the mutual pledge that closes the Declaration of Independence.

It goes like this: "And for the support of this declaration, with a firm Reliance on the Protection of divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our Fortunes, and our sacred Honor.

The question, which I think was a good one, was what do these words mean to us today? How many of us are prepared to lay our lives, our money and our sacred honor on the line today in defense of

And what about that word "honor"? It is currently in the news in regard to the West Point honor code, which some people think should be dropped. Honor isn't much prized today. I fear, let alone "sacred" honor. But our Founding Fathers held it in high esteem. Maybe we've lost something over the years.

The Declaration of Independence, by the way, still makes fine reading. If you haven't done so lately. I would commend it to you. I don't know whether a reading of the document is planned for the memorial service Saturday evening, but I hope so-it isn't all that long.

Speaking of the memorial service. reader Dave Gaertner writes to deplore the fact that it will be held on July 3 instead of the Fourth. We are making a "mockery of our cherished holidays, " writes Gaertner, adding: "I'm sure that the individuals and groups that put this celebration together mean well, but how in the world could they have not scheduled memorial services for the Fourth? To raise the flag on the 3rd will in no way have any meaning or purpose.

Well Dave, that's part of what makes America great—the right to dissent. You do have a point. In general, it looks like Sedalia is going to have an outstanding Fourth of July celebration. The bicentennial commission, the parks and recreation department and assorted private citizens have put their heads together and come up with something for everyone. This includes fireworks as a curtain-closer Sunday night. See you there!

* * * The Missour-ee vs. Missour-ah debate has brought me a grand total of three letters, the majority of which favor the latter pronunciation. Logan Garber writes that Missour-ah has been mis-pronounced for years by people who don't know better. He adds that those who prefer Missour-ee are full of Missour-ah mule (we'll cut it there). Mrs. John McCloskey also sides with Missour-ah because "it's more sophisticated sounding." O-kay. I find a lone supporter in Mrs. R.C. Becker, who prefers Missour-ee and can't see how anyone can make a "uh' our of "ri."

The area Audubon Club's newsletter reports that two recent sightings have been made of bald eagles, in the Florence and Spring Fork areas. The club wants to know of any other sightings of eagles so protective steps can be taken. Since it's our national symbol, and especially considering it's our bicentennial year, this is the least we could do. So lay off the triggers and get to the phone if you spot any unusually large birds. We'll pass the information along.

In a unanimous ruling, the court struck down a Nebraska's judge's order that restricted news coverage of a murder trial. The case involved the trial of Erwin Charles Simants last October for the slaying of six members of a farm family.

The issue was prior restraint—telling the press what it couldn't print about the case. even though such information may be readily available from officials sources, or even transpire in open court.

Chief Justice Warren Burger restricted his opinion mainly to the facts in the Nebraska case. While noting that the circumstances here did not warrant gag orders,he left the door open for this possibility in other cases by noting that "the barriers to prior restraint remain high."

There it is, plain as the nose on your face....I say the destiny of our nation depends upon having these First Amendment rights kept intact, kept without dilution, without erosion, without watering them down, without chipping them off in pieces here and there."

Medina sees the First and Sixth Amendments as separate entities. WASHINGTON — Getting the jump on Jimmy Carter, President Ford is preparing to demonstrate that he can knock bureaucratic heads together and get more efficiency out of the federal govern-

He will begin, unless the plans go awry, with a dramatic overhaul of the scattered bureaucratic enclaves that deal with energy problems. His reorganizers are busy behind closed White House doors, pulling together the widespread energy functions and putting them under one giant superagency

The reorganization plan is supposed to be ready according to internal White House documents, on Aug. 20. This happens to be the day after the Republican national convention will wind up.

If the President wins the nomination, he could beat Jimmy Carter to the punch with a move to streamline the federal bureaucracy. The Democratic candidate has made an issue of the cumbersome bureaucracy, promising a shake-up if he should become president.

Inside the Ford Administration, meanwhile, the reorganization move has touched off some savage infighting. Critics claim that it not only is strictly a campaign stunt but that the proposed superagency would rival such balkanized departments as Health, Education and Welfare or Housing and Urban Development in mindboggling unmanageability.

But White House advocates believe the reorganization would increase bureaucratic efficiency and speed U.S. energy independence, thereby saving

As laid out in the documents, the superagency might include the Federal tion, Federal Power Commission and Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

Merry-go-round

It probably would also draw in bits and pieces of the Agriculture, Commerce, Defense, Interior, State, Transportation and Treasury Departments, not to mention the Council of Economic Advisors, Energy Resources Council, Environmental Protection Agency and Water Resources Council.

This jumble of bureaucratic jigsaw pieces are supposed to be fitted into one vast agency, with the possibility of forming a smaller, secondary agency to handle the regulatory functions.

The White House documents reveal that the work on this gigantic shotgun marriage began on May 20. The task force was given three months to prepare a "presidential decision paper" for Ford to contemplate.

But the machinery to reform the bureaucracy has already developed its own bureaucratic barnacles, with the resulting inevitable delays. The timetable, therefore, may have to be ex-

The new superagency would be charged with the responsibility for developing a "comprehensive energy policy" to replace the present catch-ascatch-can methods of dealing with crises.

Specifically, the agency would be expected to increase production, reduce energy demand, promote "fossil, water, nuclear, solar and geothermal" energy, manage a 500-million-barrel strategic oil reserve, assure fair distribution of energy, set up contingency plans for handling any future oil shortage and generate electricity.

Footnote: White House sources said it is far too early to know whether the task

G.I. SERVANTS: Secretary of the Navy J. William Middendorf II, recently registered a mild complaint that our stories about the pampering of the military brass were unfair.

We have now reviewed our findings. We have spoken to enlisted aides and have inspected some of their actual work

We have concluded that the brass hats are driving around less in chauffeured cars and are cutting down on the domestic duties of their enlisted aides.

But we found aides still cleaning bathrooms, scrubbing kitchen floors, baking cookies for their commanding officers' children, sweeping ceilings, cleaning up after pets, tending gardens, making beds and doing laundry appear to violate Defense Department directives which state that aides should help officers only in the performance of official duties. But it is the officers' wives, we found, more than the officers who use enlisted aides as domestic servants

We have seen work schedules, prepared by the wives, ordering the enlisted aides to scrub bathroom and basement floors, to "wash venetian blinds, clean windows and stoves," to vacuum rugs and "clean under the bed." Other G.I. servants pull weeds, trim hedges and spread fertilizer in their commarding officers' gardens. Others serve as butlers, waiters and bus boys at the military wives' luncheons.

Fatal driver profile given

Dear Ann Landers: I have learned a great deal from your column and now I want to contribute something, in the spirit of "replenishing the well." It is the profile of the Fatal Driver as described by the U.S. Department of Transpor-

The cities studied in depth were Baltimore, Boston, Albuquerque and Oklahoma City. Here's the person who is most likely to kill himself (or someone else) when he gets behind the wheel of a car:

The Fatal Driver is usually a male, 25 to 35 years old, a heavy drinker who often prefers beer to liquor. He probably has a high school education, drives an older car, is single, divorced or separated from his wife.

He displays excessively aggressive drinking habits and is the greatest threat to highway safety during the early morning hours of the weekend. especially on holidays. - A Friend

Dear Friend: Thanks for the tip-off. And now a word to those who fit the description: YOU know who you are. WE don't. Will you do us all a favor and tape this column to the dashboard of your car as a reminder that our lives are in your hands? Please do it today. The Fourth of July weekend is one of the bloodiest. Thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: Sorry, I can't go along with your answer to the wife who said sex does nothing for her so she fakes it for her husband's sake. You gave her "an E for Effort and a T for trying."

When a woman doesn't give her 50 per cent the man gets far less enjoyment out of sex. A normal man who is halfway decent derives very little pleasure if his bed partner lets him know it's a bore and she is merely accommodating him.

Equal participation and equal enthusiasm is essential or the sexual relationship is a bust. I wonder how many people wrote to complain about your stupid answer. I'll bet I'm not the only one. - Go! One Of My Own

Dear Got: So far, you are. But obviously you didn't read what I wrote - or you misunderstood the woman's letter completely. She did not behave as if sex was a bore, nor did she cast herself in the role of a martyr. Her husband didn't have a clue that she wasn't getting

I suggested that she be more aggressive and try to teach him what was pleasing to her. I encouraged her to be a participant rather than a passive partner. In the meantime, I gave her E for Effort and T for Trying - which she richly deserved.

Dear Ann Landers: After reading all those letters from fatties who made excuses for their overeating and damned their husbands for being "turned off" I decided to give MY husband the best birthday gift of all - a new me, 40 pounds lighter. Please print my letter so I can paste it on my makeup mirror. Thanks, Ann. Your column gave me the incentive to do it, and I feel terrific! -Grateful In Greenwich Dear G in G: Forget the makeup mirror, honey. Glue this column on your refrigerator door. And good luck! I'm rootin' for you.

Blue's start against the Kansas City Royals will be his first since June 11, four days before A's owner Charlie Finley rocked the baseball world with his now famous talent auction.

Finley, in a deal voided by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, sold Blue, with a record of 6-6, to the New York Yankees for $1.5 million, and outfielder Joe Rudi and relief pitcher Rollie Fingers to Boston for $1 million each.

After Kuhn blocked the sale. Finley promised immediate

Faced with further litigation and a threatened player strike, Finley relented June 27 and inserted Fingers and Rudi into the lineup.

"I'm looking forward to finally getting to pitch again, getting a chance to make a contribution to my team. Blue said after the A's arrived here Thursday for a weekend

"How effective I'll be is a matter of conjecture. The waiting didn't do me any good but I've been pitching batting practice and I felt strong."

Blue declined to offer any predictions or moral pronouncements on the controversial sequence of events, but he agreed that "all the hassles" have put him in an awkward spot.

"New York is the commercial center of the country," he said. "The Yankees are a great organization and they're in first place. It would be great to play there.

"Everyone knows there are more opportunities for outside employment in New York than anywhere else.

NFL is ruled guilty of unfair practices in '74

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Football League has been thrown for at least a partial loss by an administrative law judge for its dealings with the players' union.

Judge Charles W. Schneider of the National Labor Relations Board has ruled that the NFL used some unfair labor practices during the 1974 contract negotiations and the subsequent player strike.

Schneider said, however, the NFL can adopt playing rules to make the game more entertaining as long as their effect on the safety of the players is discussed with the union.

He also said that the NFL's 10 per cent pre-season pay plan, which the union held to be illegal and is a current subject of collective bargaining, was not discriminatory and did not violate labor law. But, Schneider said, the NFL cannot unilaterally adopt or put into effect increased wage scales for preseason games, or any other increased compensation, without the prior consent of, or negotiation with, the union in collective bargaining.

In his 69-page decision, made public Thursday, Schneider also ruled that the then-union President Bill Curry and Vice Presidents Kermit Alexander and Tom Keating were cut, waived or traded by their teams because of their union activity and ordered them reinstated with back pay. He said Atlanta player representative Ken Reaves was not traded by the Falcons to New Orleans in violation of the law.

Miami faces deadline of July 21st

MIAMI (AP) - The Miami Dolphins have been given until July 21 to sign a new contract for the Orange Bowl or face the possibility of playing at least the first 1976 exhibition game somewhere else.

The city commission set the ultimatum Thursday in the latest round in a dispute with Dolphins owner Joe Robbie. The team plays its first National Football League exhibition game July 31.

The Dolphins have been paying a flat fee for use of the stadium, but that contract has expired. The city wants a new 10-year pact calling for the team to pay 10 per cent of gross gate receipts as rent.

But Robbie has refused to sign a long-term agreement until the city agrees to Orange Bowl renovations, including new parking facilities, satisfactory to him.

The city has drawn up plans for $18.5 million in improvements but has refused to start them without first having the contract in hand.

On the other side of the court, Tanner said: "I think we should withdraw. If someone enters, they agree to play all. They made a rule last year about Mexico's withdrawal but nothing happened. If they aren't going back to the rules then we should get out.'

Dell, a former Davis Cup captain, said he was "sick about it." But he sided with the U.S. decision. "The Davis Cup is great competition, but I think the United States is right in principle. The Davis Cup has become ludicrous the way some nations have played football with it.'

Alexander, who has not played in the two years since being cut by Philadelphia, most likely will benefit most by the decision because he will receive at least two season's salary if the ruling is upheld.

Curry, traded by Houston to Los Angeles, and Keating, sent to Kansas City by Pittsburgh, would be less affected by the ruling because any past pay would be off-set by the money they received from their new teams. Keating, however, could be eligible for some $50,000 in post-season pay he would have received because the Steelers won the Super Bowl the past

Schneider also ruled that the NFL unlawfully denied the union access to management information on such things as injuries, stadium leases, retired players, contracts for active players and the NFL's contract with commissioner Pete

He also said Miami and San Diego illegally demanded that Bill Stanfill, Larry Little and Manny Fernandez of the Dolphins and Don Goode of the Chargers, respectively, return bonuses paid them for signing contracts because the players had gone on strike.

Each side has 20 days in which to appeal judge Schneider's decision to the full fivemember board.

NLRB regional director Sidney Danielson issued a complaint June 9, 1975, in which he said 15 of 32 charges filed by the players had merit and ordered a hearing before an administrative judge. Thursday's ruling was a result of the the Constitution.

Petition backers claim response overwhelming

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) - "The public response has been overwhelming and we are confident of success at the polls in November.'

It was with that attitude that the initiative petition drive for a public vote on a proposed law banning utilities from charging customers in advance for long-range construction projects ended Thursday.

Petitions containing more than 131,000 signatures from seven congressional districts were presented to Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick for verification. All but 15,000 were collected on the eastern side of the state and the total was more than double the number needed to qualify the proposal for the November

The eight bags of signed hours before the deadline for this year's election, were the fourth series of petitions submitted for signature verifica-

The other three seek to amend the Constitution and required a greater number of signatures. Those three would permit state aid for private schools in the areas of handicapped service, transportation and textbooks; a oneeighth cent sales tax for purchase of hunting, fishing and natural areas; and exemption of food and drugs from the sales tax.

The private school aid petitions have already been certified and voters will decide that issue at the Aug. 3 primary. Kirkpatrick has said he will announce whether the one-eight cent sales tax will be on the ballot within the next week, and work just began on the food and drug petitions.

The citizens for Reformed Electric Rates began circulating their petition to limit utility rate hikes following the decision of the Missouri Public Service Commission to permit costs of projects totaling $50 million or more to be passed on to customers before they are completed

So far, such rate hikes have been permitted Union Electric Co. for construction of the state's first nuclear power plant and Kansas City Power and Light Co. for construction of two new coal-fired generating units.

'The construction of new power plants can last an unknown number of years and cost unknown millions of dollars," said Dee Aylward, coordinator for the petition drive. "Most people being charged today through their electric rates cannot afford to underwrite these construction risks.

Over 2,000 volunteers participated in the petition drive, Mrs. Aylward said. The drive began only in April. Since 1910, when Missouri

Abortion ruling stirs McCormack delegates

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.

The four Democratic National Convention delegates mack were initially depressed by the news Thursday of the U. S. Supreme Court decision striking down most of their stitutional ban on abortion.

But the high court's decision 'increases the activity for getting a pro-life plank in the Democratic platform," said James Egan, mayor of St. Louis's largest suburb and a McCormack delegate.

'Maybe with the ruling of the court now there will be more people inclined to go with a pro-life plank," Egan

The decision has already prompted one uncommitted member of the Missouri convention delegation to seriously consider backing Mrs. McCormack on the first ballot.

'I'm a very strong antiabortion person and my sentimental preference is Ellen McCormack," said Jack Keane, "and right now it looks like the platform is going to be the fight. The platform is more important now than what the candidates were

Pro-life forces in the state who successfully organized Mrs. McCormack's delegate bid here, claimed many of the delegates from across the nation formally pledged to other candidates are also pro-life supporters. They believe the Supreme Court decision will

Brown could turn up almost anywhere

William F. Brown

By JOAN CROSBY

HOLLYWOOD — William F. Brown is a man for all

He has written for TV, nightclub performers' industrial shows and Broadway. He is the author of the musical hit "The Wiz" which is still a Broadway success and is presently playing in Los Angeles to enthusiastic

He also writes and draws the nationally syndicated comic strip Boomer.

Brown was in Los Angeles for the opening of "The Wiz" and agreeing that a white Princeton grad who looks like a bank executive is hardly the image one conjures up for the author of the hip, black version of "The Wizard of Oz."

He admits there were problems at the start of the project.

"Yeah, there was some resentment in the beginning. It took a while to get acceptold the producers I was not "learn." He did.

up to the minute on the latest black slang and I wanted the actors to be able to change a line if they didn't feel comfortable with it.'

"The Wiz" will shortly be opening in Japan, and there is a mixed company of blacks and whites performing it in Australia. Brown says he doesn't "dig that idea. However, the Japanese version is fine because this is an exotic verzion of 'The Wizard of Oz' and not a black message show.'

Brown was an advertising agency executive for an agency which handled the U.S. Steel Hour and the Circle Theater. He had an idea for a TV special and went to producer Max Liebman with it. Brown wound up writing sketches for it, even though he had never seen a sketch writer before. But Liebman felt he could handle it and he

Then he got an idea for a musical finale and was told to write the lyrics. When he about a month said he didn't know how to before things settled down. I write lyrics, he was told, career, and gradually TV

Career in baseball abandoned

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD - If he could have only hit the long ball, today Bert Convy might be plying first base for the Philadelphia Phillies, instead of getting ready for his own CBS variety show.

Convy, the good-looking and easy-going actor-MCsinger, was born in St. Louis, but grew up in Los Angeles' San Fernando Valley.

"My only love at that time," he says, "was baseball."

As a teenager, he signed with the Phillies and spent two seasons in that club's minor league system.

"I was a first baseman," he says, "but after those two years I realized I had no real future in professional baseball. I hit for a pretty good average, but I was never a long ball hitter. And, as a left-hander, the only places I could play were first base or the outfield, and I knew the majors wanted distance hitters in those posi-

So he decided to quit baseball. Fortunately for him there was an alternative. There was a growing interest in the theater, which had begun to develop as the interest in baseball waned.

So, when he hung up his spikes, Convy went to UCLA and studied acting. And he's never regretted the switch. He went right from college into the famed Billy Barnes repertory group and it's been a case of onward and upward ever since.

Convy went on to a distinguished Broadway

But what he's long wanted was his own variety hour. He has it now - although it's only a half-hour and only for four weeks. But there's always the hope that it will and movie roles developed, catch fire and become a permanent fixture on the network's schedule.

Sierra was only on TV for a short space of time and there is no chance of it returning. To complain, write your local station and perhaps producer Robert Cinader, Universal Studios, Universal City, Calif. 91608. It was not Cinader's fault the series is no longer on but he probably would like to know some people out there you caught one of his infrequent, rust-removing appearances in Reno or Las Vegas, the recent Dean has been presence characterized by absence.

But, things are changing. Dean is coming back and he's coming back strong.
I caught up with Dean at a recording studio here where he was putting the finishing touches to several of the numbers on his just released Casino LP, called, appropriately, "LO.U." to capitalize on the instant success of his chart-breaking single of that title.

"I have nothing but happy memories of my last TV show," he told me, "and I Muppets. I don't think Rowlf (the Muppet star of the Dean TV show) worked with anyone as well as he worked with me. I guess I really believed he existed and I forgot there were people behind him.

"But I would not do another TV series. I'm 47 and I've been down a lot of roads. I enjoy taking advice from people if I know they're smarter than I am. But soe of the TV advice I get is so dumb...

Here, Jimmy revealed a surprisingly graphic X-rated potential.

"But," he continued, "after laying off for a while, I found I couldn't do without live entertainment and I still love have the greatest admiration to do TV guest shots. And if for Jim Henson and his someone were to make me an offer to act, I'd be a lot more than casually interested. But even now, I won't let my career interfere with my time with my family.

Jimmy is a golf fanatic; he loves to go out on his boat Big Bad John and he's in the process of building a new home on the waterfront in Charleston, S.C. Each of these activities is likely to take precedence over performing.

But, that doesn't mean Jimmy Dean is improvident or lacks foresight. Mr. Dean is very close to being a one-man conglomerate. He'll cut records and accept night club bookings and do lots of TV guest shots for the sheer joy of doing them. But, when the chips are down, he's a lot closer to Dow-Jones than to MCA, William Morris or that crowd of show biz promoters.

"I've got my fingers in a lot of pies," he told me. Then, he laughed. "You've never seen my act in Vegas, have you? If you had, you'd know why I've got my fingers in so many pies. Too many people in show business think the money is going to be there forever. I could give you a list of people who've made 10 times as much as I have who are so broke today...

Jimmy and his brother Don are involved in the meat business, apartment houses, hotels, farming, banking, the clothing business and several other enterprises he couldn't recall at the moment.

"The most difficult thing in any business is peopling yourself properly," Dean noted. "Once you have the right people, you can overcome most problems. The biggest business we have is Jimmy Dean Sausages. We took off so fast we were undercapitalized and we'll still lagging in distribution. But we've proved it's possible to survive with quality. I do my own commercials and the reason they look so sincere is that I'm talking about a product I really believe in.

Dean explains his preoccupation with high finance with a comment on his

THE variety in nails is staggering, but encouraging, because there is a type and size which is exactly right for the job you want done and the material you are working with. It's not likely you'll need to keep a complete supply on hand. Best bet is to buy nails as you need them, selecting the right type and size for the job, but buying more than you need. Thus you'll have a quantity remaining which you can add to your shop supplies for use when a similar job comes up. These you can store in small drawers made for the purpose, in open top bins, or — as many people do — in Mason jars.

More often than not, the name of the nail describes its use. For example, shingle nail or sheetrock nail or siding nail and so on. If you are ever puzzled about the right nail to use, merely give it the name of the job you are going to do or the material you are working with and your supply dealer will know exactly what you want.

Women given sole veto on abortion

Court ruled Thursday that neither husband nor parent can be given veto power over a woman's decision to have an abortion

The court struck down provisions of a Missouri law which require the consent of the husband of a married woman and the consent of at least one parent of a single woman under 18.

The vote was 6 to 3 on the issue of requiring the husband's consent, with Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Byron R. White and William H. Rehnquist dissenting.

Court overturned most of Missouri's abortion statutes Thursday, with supporters of strong abortion laws vowing to push for a constitutional ment should have been upheld.

The decision appeared to leave the way open for states to impose some provisions for parental consent, at least at some ages, as long as they did not amount to "parental veto.

"Our holding ... does not suggest that every minor, regardless of age or maturity, may give effective consent for termination of her pregnancy," Justice Harry A. Blackmun said for the court.

It was the court's first major abortion decision since the justices ruled in 1973 that states may not regulate abortion in the first three months of pregnancy.

That decision, which was also written by Blackmun, held that the state could stage at which the fetus would be able to live on its own.

Ilse Darling, national director of the Religious Coalition for Abortion Rights, predicted that Thursday's decision would 'deescalate the abortion controversy."

The National Abortion Rights Action League said 12 states require the consent of husbands and 14 states impose parental consent requirements of some kind.

In a separate decision the court suggested that a parental-consent law adopted by Massachusetts might be constitutional.

That law calls for consent of both parents but permits a judge to override their decision

A three-judge federal court ruled the law unconstitutional

Massachusetts officials appealed, arguing that the law would permit a pregnant teenager to get a court order for an abortion even without consulting her parents.

The high court did not rule on the question, declaring unanimously that the supreme judicial court of Massachusetts should be given a chance to interpret the state law first.

But it did say that the Massachusetts law does not appear to have the tone of a "parental veto" like the Missouri law.

In another unanimous decision, the court set aside for procedural reasons a ruling of the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals striking down a Missouri law de-

Walnut Hills sewage plan passed over

The Missouri Clean Water Commission Wednesday failed to act on a request to construct a sewage treatment center in receive transcripts of a public hearing on the matter held this spring in Sedalia.

James Rosenthal, Jefferson City, a member of the staff for water quality programs of the state Division of Environmental Quality, said transcripts of the hearing were sent to the five commission members about 10 days ago. However, Rosenthal said, the documents have not yet reached the members. He said his office is conducting an investigation to determine if the transcripts were accidentally not sent or whether they were lost in transport.

In a summary of the group's findings and recommendations, which would have been submitted for the commission's consideration had the transcripts been available, it was noted that the proposed sewage treatment facility met all standards except one. The exception is that officials of the South Walnut Hills Development Corp., which is seeking to construct the facility, have not turned in a satisfactory engineer's report.

A spokesman for the corporation Thursday said efforts are currently underway to complete a satisfactory

Rosenthal said attorneys for the Division of Environmental Quality will investigate the legality of polling commission members by telephone once the transcripts are made available to them. If this could be done, action on the proposal would not have to be delayed until the commission's next meeting Aug. 26. The six-member commission is a nonsalaried board whose members are appointed by the governor. There is currently one vacancy on the group, it was

The Soviet salvage tug "Dekabrist" radioed that it had picked up Thomas shortly before midnight Wednesday. A major search for the balloonist already was underway, with 10 planes operating out of the United States, Canada, Bermuda, England and Spain

A Coast Guard spokesman said the Dekabrist radioed that it had taken Thomas aboard about 500 miles southeast of his departure point at Lakehurst, N.J. He took off Last Friday, hoping to reach Paris four days.

The Soviet ship was bound from New York to Holland and said it would land Thomas at Rotterdam around July 8.

The Coast Guard said there was no word as to the fate of the balloon, the "Spirit of '76." It was explained that Thomas had a parachute aboard and could have abandoned the balloon while it still was in flight

The star-spangled strut of the Smith-Cotton and Sedalia Junior High School marching bands, decorative floats, stately color guards and a covered wagon with its original wooden wheels will be featured in the Sedalia bicentennial parade at 10 a.m. Saturday.

The route of the parade, which will kick off the multiphased local bicentennial weekend observance, is as follows: from West Main east to Ohio, south on Ohio to Seventh, west on Seventh to Osage, north on Osage to Third, west on Third and disband.

Some 40 entries have been received for the parade, it was reported. Police announced Thursday no parking will be permitted on Ohio, from Main to Seventh, from 6 a.m. until after the parade passes. The parade is being organized by the Pettis County Veteran's Council under the direction of Ed Brant.

Other events scheduled for Saturday include various contests at Liberty Park beginning at 1 p.m. including races, softball and volleyball games and a cake-decorating contest at 2 p.m. A swimming carnival, consisting of several novelty games and events, will begin at 7 p.m. at Liberty Park Pool.

The conclusion of official bicentennial activities will begin at 8:30 p.m. Saturday at Jennie Jaynes Stadium with a memorial service. This event will feature various musical numbers and lively entertainment in addition to activities. normally associated with memorial services.

'A look inside ourselves'

100-year-old time capsule unlocked by Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) - The 100-year-old wish of Mrs. Amna Diehm came true Thursday when President Ford opened her cast-iron safe and unpacked dusty mementoes of the nation's Centennial celebration in 1876. As the President opened the inner glass door of the safe, a gold pen rolled out and fell to the floor of the Capitol's Statuary Hall. Ford stooped and picked it up. The pen was used in 1876 by thousands of the visitors to the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia to sign their names in huge, leatherbound albums provided by Mrs. Diehm, a Civil War widow and New York publisher who died in

Ford removed the silver Tiffany inkstand the signers of the albums used and then hefted one of

Although the contents of the safe appeared to be in near-perfect condition, the silver of the inkstand was tarnished and the albums covered with the dust of a century.

When the Philadelphia exposition closed at the end of 1876, Mrs. Diehm toured the nation to get the signatures and photographs of leaders of politics, business and religion as well as leading poets and orators.

The safe itself was not finally locked until 1879. Since that time it has been stored in the Capitol. For decades it remained forgotten under the east

"As we look inside this safe, let us look inside ourselves," Ford said, declaring that America's most important possession is its national spirit, 'which cannot be locked in any safe.'

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield told the audience of congressmen and their families that the ceremonies "honor the wish of a lady who sought to speak to us from the other side of a 100year gulf."

House speaker Carl Albert praised Mrs. Diehm's Centennial project and called her a woman of "vision, creativity and hard work."

And Rep. Lindy Boggs, D-La., apologized that though the promise to Mrs. Diehm was kept, the timing was slightly off.

On the inside of one of the safe's iron outer doors is the inscription, "it is the wish of Mrs. Diehm that this safe may remain closed until July 4, 1976, then to be opened by the Chief Magistrate of the United States.

But this year July 4 falls on a Sunday and most members of Congress and other officials will be away from the Capitol. Mrs. Boggs said that the first and most important part of Mrs. Diehm's wish was fulfilled when President Ford agreed to open the safe. The mementoes in the safe will be given to the should be thankful for fools, for without them the rest of us couldn't succeed. Some times it gets a little trying, however.

Like the school board in Winnetka, Ill., which recently voted to take "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" off the required reading list of the high school. The reason was that black parents had objected to the use of the word "nigger" in the novel, as well as Twain's depiction of 19th century race relations.

Twain has been in trouble before on this count, as has Joseph Conrad, whose "Nigger of the Narcissus" as well as other works are looked upon with disfavor by those who find that many examples of 19th century, and earlier, literature don't quite pass muster from the vantage point of contemporary views of racial equality.

United States the great capitalist country it is today.

His name is Ezra Beetle, and he was the founder of the "Fourth of July Bargain Sale" that has become the biggest event in the celebration of Independence Day.

Without the spectacular Fourth of July sales in department stores, used-car lots, grocery stores and discount houses, it is doubtful that this country would have survived as a nation

While everyone was concerned with the philosophy of the new government, Ezra devoted his efforts toward developing American commerce, because he realized that no matter what constitution the country would finally agree upon, it would not be able to exist unless merchants could move their goods.

In 1776 Ezra owned a small general store outside of Boston. When word reached him on July 2 that the Colonies had agreed on a Declaration of Independence, he recognized a golden opportunity at hand. He could get rid of all the junk that had been accumulating in his store for the previous three years.

Ezra immediately took out an advertisement in the Boston paper with a blazing headline: "BEETLE HAS GONE CRAZY—he is selling $5 horsewhips for

Hot time on High Court

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON - The Supreme Court's 5-4 decision last week in the state's rights case left Mr. Justice Brennan "incredulous." He could not believe his erring brothers had done. By contrast, the decision left some of the rest of us delighted.

majority ringingly affirmed the doctrine that state sovereignty survives. Judicially speaking, to be sure, the ring was a somewhat hollow ring, for a 5-4 decision lies on the law books like ice on summer seas. This ruling may not last past the second year of a Carter ad-

But while the opinion prevails, it is good news for all us old-fashioned fellows who cling to the 10th Amendment. It is immensely encouraging to those who believe the states never delegated to Congress a power to control their own most intimate affairs. The opinion suited me

Speaking through Mr. Justice Rehnquist, the majority ruled that Congress may not impose upon the state governments, as public employers, the minimum wage and maximum hour laws that apply to private employers. The states and localities, in brief, cannot be compelled by federal law to pay overtime after 40 hours to a teacher or a trooper; they cannot be compelled to pay minimum wages to the janitor who sweeps a capitol's floors.

The majority's reasoning is that the 'power to regulate commerce," which the states delegated to Congress under the Constitution, is not an unlimited power. In the name of regulating commerce, said the majority, Congress cannot take from the states the power to make "fundamental employment deci-

This holding did not suit Brennan at all. He wrote a sizzling dissent in which White and Marshall joined. Mr. Justice Stevens added a peppery dissent of his own. It was like old times on the high court. Hugo Black and Felix Frankfurter must have been chortling in their graves.

Brennan began mildly, by saying he warmed up. His brothers had repudiated principles that had been settled since the time of John Marshall. They had engaged in "patent usurpation" of the legislative powers of Congress. They had manufactured an "abstraction without substance." Neither the words of the Constitution nor any judicial precedent could support their cavalier action.

The more Brennan thought about it. the madder he got. Parts of the majority opinion were "absurd." His brothers had engaged in mere "sophistry." They had exercised "raw judicial power." They had dealt a "catastrophic judicial body blow to Congress' power under the Commerce Clause." Brennan saw "an ominous portent of disruption of our constitutional structure implicit in today's mischievous decision.'

"I cannot recall another instance in the Court's history," said the infuriated Brennan, "when the reasoning of so many decisions covering so long a span of time has been discarded roughshod." The opinion, he said, reflected "nothing but displeasure with a congressional judgment." His brothers, he reminded them, were not "at liberty to erect a mirror of their own conception of a desirable governmental structure." They had no right to trump up "a transparent cover for invalidating a congressional judgment with which they disagree.'

This is heady stuff. What Brennan was revealing, as he flung moderation to the winds, was the essential phoniness of a great American myth. The myth tells us that "ours is a government not of men, but of laws." There is scarcely a word of truth in it. When it comes to interpreting the supreme law of the land, our government is emphatically a government of

If Hubert Humphrey had defeated Richard Nixon in 1968, we would not have had last week's decision. It is a fair surmise that a President Humphrey never would have appointed such justices as Burger, Rehnquist, Blackmun and Powell. We would have had other men instead, and these men would have taken a liberal view of Congress's power under the Commerce Clause. This was a June decision, but it carries a thought for the coming November.

Teamsters

By JACK ANDERSON with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON - In times past, members of Congress bolstered their family finances by putting relatives on the public payroll. This hoary practice, called nepotism, was outlawed in 1967.

But many crafty congressmen have found there's more than one way to skin the taxpayers. Now they put one another's relatives on the payroll, an exercise in payroll juggling that somehow has gone unnoticed

We have shaken the congressional payroll and a number of relatives have fallen out like overripe fruit from a tree.

Thus Congress is still partly a family affair. Our associates Jack Cloherty and Bob Owens have been searching the pay lists and matching up names. Here's how some of the jigsaw pieces together:

Rep. John McFall, D-Calif., the No. 3 man on the Democratic totem pole, has placed two daughters on the congressional payroll under the patronage of obliging colleagues. Alicia McFall has a permanent job with the House International Relations Committee; Sarah McFall is an intern with the House Post Office Committee.

McFall's counterpart on the Republican side, Rep. Robert Michel, R-Ill., slipped the daughter of his colleague, Rep. Edward Dersinski, R-Ill., on his congressional payroll last year. Michel gave Marueen Derwinski a summer job.

- Rep. Jim Wright, D-Texas, a contender next year for the post of majority leader, has his wife Betty as a $23,000-ayear administrative assistant on a Public Works subcommittee

Rep. Mel Price, D-Ill., the former House Ethics chairman, wangled a $17,000-a-year job on Capitol Hill for his brother Raymond.

- Amiable, accommodating Rep. John Dent, D-Pa., has provided jobs for the daughters of two colleagues, R: Richard

Merry-go-round

Congress disguises same old nepotism

Ichord, D-Mo., and Robert Giaimo, D

-Rep. Bill Clay, D-Mo., hunted up summer jobs for two of his children last year. He placed a daughter with Rep. Louis Stokes, D -Ohio, and planted a son with Rep. Charles Wilson, D -Calif.

No one knows how to play the nepotism game under the new rules better than Rep. Joe Skubitz, R -Kan. He arranged a summer job for his granddaughters of two colleagues, Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., and Robert Giaimo, D-Conn.

- Rep. Spark Matsunaga, D -Hawaii, has managed to get his brother Andrew on the payroll at $15,000 a year. The congressman also swung a job for his son as a House page.

- Rep. Tom Kindness, R -Ohio, true to his name, employed the daughter of Rep. Tenneson Guyer, R-Ohio, as a receptionist. She found employment with Kindness after an earlier stint with Rep. William Powell, R -Ohio.

Rep. Richard Vander Veen, D-Mich., who took over Gerald Ford's old seat, wasted no time using his congressional connections to get a page job for

- Rep. Gus Yatron, D -Pa., found his son a spot as a summer intern with the House Administration Committee. The boy later worked part time while he was attending law school

- Rep. Ed Jones, D -Tenn., a member of the House Administration Committee, helped find his son-in-law an auditor's job on the committee by introducing him to former Chairman Wayne Hays, D.

- Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., the stingiest man in Congress with foreign aid money is more generous with the taxpayers' money when it comes to his family. He arranged an $18,000-a-year House job for his brother Otis.

- Other congressmen, whose family planning we have uncovered, are Bill Ford, D -Mich., and Ed Patten, D -N.J. Ford's wife works for the House Administration Committee and Patten's wife is a secretary in his office. This is job before the 1967 law took effect. Most working relatives, it should be noted, probably earn their pay. But it is contrary to the intent, if not the letter of the law for them to be on the congres-

legal, in her case, because she had the

The real charity cases, however, are fallen colleagues. These are the congressmen who are put out of office by their constituents but who stay on Capitol Hill on the payroll of sympathetic friends. House Republican leader John Rhodes, R-Ariz., for example, felt sorry for ex-Rep. Dick Shoup, R-Mont., and put him on the payroll for a time. Rep. Norman Lent, R-N.Y., took in former Rep. Larry Hogan, R-Md.

Congressional salaries, keeping pace with inflation, have steadily risen to the present pinnacle of $44,625 a year. This is considered ample in most constituencies to keep the wolf from the door. But our enterprising legislators have been able to improve their bank balances, despite the antinepotism law, by playing hide-andseek with the congressional payroll.

Editor's mail Spare the details

On several of the newcasts, the big local radio station reported an incident that happened in a Sedalia store. The news director could have briefly commented on this case of molestation which, no doubt, was newsworthy.

He chose, however, to describe in detail and even give quotes of the deranged person, and then had his 'knights of good tidings' inform us of

I, for one, would be very pleased if such details would be curtailed or omitted in the future. I doubt very much that the general public cares for such reporting. Let those who crave the finer details go and read the police report.

Graduation costs go up at college

State Fair Community College graduates will be paying more to wear their caps and gowns next year as a result of inflation.

The SFCC Board of Trustees voted Wednesday night to increase the cost of graduation fees for associate degree and certificate program graduates $1.50 to $11 and $9 respectively. Due to the increased cost of jewelry, Health Occupation Program graduates will experience the highest increase in graduation fees. These graduates receive pins upon completion of their program accounting for a boost of $4.50 in graduation fees from $13.50 to $18.

The board took further action to continue the career education program, at SFCC by approving a policy resolution for two career education proposals. The resolution provides for the implementation and continuation of a career education program in the SFCC district.

In other action, the board voted to submit a request establishing an Associate Degree in nursing in the school's degree programs. Approval by the Coordinating Board of Higher Education, Missouri State Board of Nursing and State Department of Elementary and Secondary Education is required before the program can become active.

The program has been proposed as a result of a need for to expand health occupations education, according to the request. According to the board, the Advisory Committee for Health Occupations Education Programs has suggested this program for top priority at SFCC.

The program would involve two years of study and is a base for completing a four year program at a college or university, according to the board.

The board was treated to a pre niere showing of a Media Center project. Dan Blackledge, Media Center director, and Gary Tipton, audio-visual specialist, showed the board examples of the curriculum materials produced by the center. Most of these materials are in the form of tape and slide productions to aid in learning various academic and occupational subjects. Following the regular meeting, the board was given a tour of the center

A fee schedule for shorthand machines to be used in the shorthand curriculum was approved by the board.

Under the fee schedule adopted, students would pay $10 per month for two year rental of the machines. At the end of that period the machine would become the property of the student. Students would also be allowed to purchase the machine for $220 at the beginning of the

Price record is set at local sale

A new U.S. record price for both a purebred ram and ewe was set here last weekend during the Midwest Stud Ram Sale at the Missouri State Fairgrounds.

A Suffolk yearling ram consigned by George Brothers of Deshler, Ohio, was sold to Shroyer Suffolks of DeGraff, Ohio, for $23,000, topping the old record of $17,000 paid for a Hampshire ram at the same sale last year.

Ken and Jim Andrus, Lava Hot Springs, Idaho, had the Supreme Champion ewe of the show, a Suffolk yearling. that set an all-time female record price in the U.S. when she was sold to Huff Ranch, Salem, Ore., for $8,000. The same ranch paid the previous record price of $6,100 three years ago.

A total of 29 Suffolk yearling rams sold for more than $1,000 at the sale, with the Supreme Champion ram going for $9,500 to Bud Westlake, Marysville, Ohio. It was owned by Jack Larsen of Spanish Fork, Utah.

In the lamb class, a fall lamb owned by Bill and Jim Heggemeier set a new record when it was sold for $2,025. It was a Hampshire and purchased by M. A. Bosse, Fostoria, Ohio.

A total of seven breeds were consigned for the sale and the prices paid averaged out at $470 for the 1,030 head, an increase of more than $100 per head since last year. The 1975 sale grossed almost half a million dollars. No figure was available for this year's sale.

Palestinians shoving aside assassination investigation

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A Palestinian investigation into the kidnaping and assassination of U.S. Ambassador Francis E. Meloy has been shoved into the background by guerrilla leaders worried about their own survival in the Lebanese

"When the time comes, the Palestinian leadership will reveal all the details," a spokesman for Yasir Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization pledged Thursday. "But the leadership is busy with the fighting in Lebanon now and has something more important to do.'

The PLO took charge of the investigation after the killing of Meloy, economic counselor Robert O. Waring and Meloy's Lebanese driver on June 16, promising to bring the killers to

The next day it announced the arrest of several Lebanese suspects and said they had confessed. Spokesmen promised they would be turned over to Arab peacekeeping forces and hinted the assassination was part of a broad but undefined

Then the war in Lebanon exploded with renewed fury and attention shifted away. Nothing more has been heard from the investigation, but several new elements have been pieced together from Palestinian and diplomatic sources:

-Besides Lebanese, Palestinians also have been arrested in connection with the assassination, bringing the number of suspects held to eight. There is no word how many are Palestinian, how many Lebanese.

-Meloy is said to have attempted the dangerous crossing into Christian territory without notifying Palestinian guerrillas or Lebanese Moslem gunmen who control the area. This information, supported by high Palestinian and American sources, contradicts the impression left by the U.S. Embassy the day of the killing.

-Meloy's armor-plated car has been recovered and is in Palestinian hands. It is undamaged, indicating its doors were opened willingly by Meloy or his driver.

This raises several possibilities about how the abduction occurred, since the green and black Chevrolet was equipped with electric locks openable only from the inside and bulletproof windows fixed in closed position.

One Western diplomat reported Meloy often opened his door to introduce himself at roadblocks around Beirut, feeling a direct friendly approach was the best guarantee of safety. This means the gunmen could have taken over without Palestinian and Lebanese sources sometimes suggest driver Zohair Moghrabi could have been bought off or blackmailed by a threat against his family. But the U.S. Embassy insists Moghrabi had a long record of faithful and even valorous service and was above suspicion.

Another theory raised by informed sources is that the kidnapers were aiming a rocket-propelled grenade at the car. That or a shoulder-fired bazooka - common weapons in Beirut - could knock open the car and Meloy could have decided to try talking his way out of trouble.

Civil war continues despite truce call

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Lebanon's three-way civil war raged on Thursday heedless of an Arab League truce appeal and announcement that additional peacekeeping troops were on the way.

Right-wing Christian forces pounded the beleaguered Palestinian refugee camp of Tal Zaatar for the 10th consecutive day with heavy artillery and incendiary rockets.

The Palestinian central command claimed it shoved back a concerted fiveway assault in fighting that included hand-tohand combat around the camp in southeastern Beirut.

Moslem and Palestinian gunners launched a number of heavy Katyusha rockets from Beirut's southern outskirts. aimed at Christian artillery positions firing at the Tal Zaatar defenders. Striking back, Christian 155mm howitzers blasted Moslem residential neighborhoods housing Palestinian guerrilla offices, setting a number of fires.

They burned as the 1 p.m. deadline passed for a cease-fire urged by Arab League foreign ministers meeting in Cairo. Neither side gave any indication it was willing to hold its fire until the Tal Zaatar battle is resolved.

"We want a cease-fire agreement, but not a ridiculous one," said Pierre Gemayel, head of the right-wing Phalange party that fields the largest
